NORWAY AND VICINITY

Luck—Hathaway.

A very pretty June wedding took place Tuesday evening, June 3d, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hathaway, when their daughter, Clara Louise, was united in marriage to Homer Randall Luck.

The parlor was prettily decorated with ferns, evergreens and cut flowers.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Pearl Cook, the bridal party, consisting of the matron of honor, Mrs. Harry Luck, the groom accompanied by his brother, Harry Luck, as best man, and the bride accompanied by her father, who gave her away, entered the parlor where the wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. R. J. Bruce under an arch of evergreen tastily decorated with flowering almond. The single ring service was used. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families of the contracting parties and a few invited guests.

The bride was handsomely gowned in a dress of white lansdowne over silk, with lace, satin and pearl trimmings and wore a bridal veil caught with pearls. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

Following the ceremony, refreshments of ice cream, cake, fancy crackers, fruit punch and bride's cake were served in dining room.

Mrs. Luck is a resident of Norway and has taken an active interest in the Universalist church. She is a member of Abigail Chapter, D. A. R. She attended the public schools of Norway and was graduated in the class of 1910.

Mr. Luck has resided in Norway for the past few years, having moved here from Bridgton. At present he is employed as clerk in Drake & Brooks' grocery store.

Mr. and Mrs. Luck were the recipients of a large number of wedding gifts, which included money, gold, silver, cut glass and linen. They will make their home with Mrs. Luck's parents for the present.

A Night Visitor.

A noise was heard in Walter Luck's stable on Paris street one night last week. Thinking it was a horse that sometimes gets loose he went to the stable. This horse was all right, but the other horse had his blanket partly removed and the wagon and some other things had been moved. Looking again in the first stall he saw a man in the further corner. The man said he was trying to find a place to sleep.

At H. F. and E. E. Andrews a man was seen trying to get into the stable. He was spoken to and told to go away.

Dr. H. L. Bartlett's son went to their stable in the morning and found a man sleeping on the hay. He had broken into the stable.

There will be no preaching services, Sunday, June 8, at the Universalist church on account of the baccalaureate services. The Sunday school and Y. P. C. U. will meet as usual. It is expected there will be a candidate for the following Sunday.

The D. A. R. Chapter held its last meeting for the season with Mrs. Laura A. Sanborn, Wednesday evening. The paper compiled by Rev. M. C. Ward and read by Margaret A. Baker on the Huguenots was listened to with attention. After the meeting those who wished attended the reception tendered to Mr. Ward.

A fishing party has gone to Four Ponds. Those in the party were B. G. McIntire and J. E. McIntire of Waterford; G. W. Richardson of Greenwood; G. L. Curtis and I. W. Waite of Norway; A. W. Walker, South Paris; William P. Robbins, William H. Holmes and W. H. Nolan of Shelton, Conn.; W. H. Fairbanks, Sudbury, Mass.; H. O. Brooks, Portland and William Dunning of Maple Grove, Quebec.

NUMBER 23. JUNE 6, 1913, NORWAY, MAINE. VOLUME XLIV.

Memorial Observance.

Memorial day was very appropriately observed as the day devoted to the memory of the soldiers of the Civil war. At 9.30 the line of march at Norway was formed in front of the Opera House and proceeded to Pine Grove cemetery. The procession was led by the Norway band which furnished some excellent music for the occasion. Then came Co. D, N. G. S. M., followed by 12 members of Harry Rust Post and 9 Spanish War veterans. At the cemetery they were met by the Ladies of the Relief Corps, who assisted in the decorating of the graves.

The exercises at the cemetery were brief and consisted of music by the band, prayer and the reading of Lincoln's speech at Gettysbury by Rev. R. J. Bruce.

Then followed the decorating of the graves, which numbered 178, with flowers, wreaths and flags. At noon dinner was served at Pythian hall by the Relief Corps. Flags of all sizes and red, white and blue buntings were displayed from nearly all the stores and dwellings of the village.

At 2.30 a large number assembled at Norway Opera House at services to honor the hero dead. A fervent prayer was offered by Rev. B. C. Wentworth. A solo appropriate to the occasion was sung by Mrs. Solomon Jackson; also, later in the service, a reading by Mrs. Jackson, urging reverence for Memorial day,—"Because My Father was a Soldier." A Memorial solo was sung by Helen Dunn. "Tenting Tonight" and an encore by the male quartette, the members: Rev. B. C. Wentworth, S. C. Foster, O. P. Brooks and Chas. W. Cooper. The Norway band, under the direction of Frank P. Knapp, rendered martial music in a way that set the blood tingling.

The commander, W. G. Cordwell, in accordance to the wishes of the Post, requested those who wished to pass out of the hall to do so, as the soldiers and others who wished to do reverence to the occasion had to be repeatedly disturbed and annoyed by large numbers of people passing out and in during the speaking. A number availed themselves of the opportunity.

The address was by Merton L. Kimball of Norway. It was delivered in an earnest and impressive manner, each word given its full value. He talked directly to the patriotic organizations present. He based his remarks on the poem of Longfellow, "Morituri Salutamus," written by him for the occasion of the 50th anniversary of his college graduation, in July, 1875, and read by him. Death had claimed at that time most of the members of that famous class. Mr. Kimball saw much in common in the sentiment of this poem and the 50th anniversary from the Civil war, 1863 being the year the tide of fortune turned in favor of the Northern army.

"Honor and reverence, and the good repute
That follows faithful service as its fruit,
Be unto him, whom living we salute.

* * * * *

Let him not boast who puts his armor on
As he who puts it off, the battle done."

No man knows the histoty of our wars better than the speaker. He referred to the Revolutionary war that gave us (through our soldiery) our country; to the lesser war of 1812, about 100 years ago, with the same proud nation, that upheld the dignity of our country on the seas and abroad; to the war of the Rebellion that preserved the unity and integrity of our country; to the Spanish war that directly served to heal the hard feeling between the North and the South.

Should the Southern States have been allowed to secede instead of one nation, one of the most distinguished nations in the world, there would have been at least two, and in all probability many more till it would have been an impossibility to have been as many inferior nations as states, without a strong central government.

"And now, my classmates; ye remaining few
That number not the half of those we knew,
Ye, against whose familiar names not yet
The fatal asterisk of death is set,
Ye, I salute! the horologe of time
Strikes the half-century with a solmen chime,
And summons us together once again,
The joy of meeting not unmixed with pain."

He recalled to mind the days of strife and battle, and especially emphasized the conceded fact that the battlefield with all its horrors is not as deadly or so terrible as the camp with its diseases and inactivity.

"But why, you ask me, should this tale be told
To men grown old, or who are growing old?
It is too late! Ah, nothing is too late,
Till the tired heart shall cease to palpitate,
Cato learned Greek at eighty; Sophocles
Bore off the prize of verse from his compeers,
When each had numbered more than four-score years.

* * * * *

These are indeed exceptions; but they show
How far the gulf-stream of our youth may flow
Into the Arctic regions of our lives,
Where little else that life itself survives."

From this he sounded a cheerful note at this sad time to the old soldiers.

The Harry Rust Post, G. A. R., wishes the Advertiser to say to its readers that this Memorial is conceded by the members to be the best in the history of their organization.

Base Ball.

Norway 10; South Paris 9; 11 Innings.

Those old time rivals, Norway and South Paris, met Friday afternoon and played an interesting game of ball on the Fair Grounds. The Paris team was made up of High school players with some local players and the Norway team was made up of local players with a few telephone boys.

Paris scored one in the second and Norway came back with five. In the ninth, Paris tied it up on two hits and two errors. Neither side scored again until the eleventh, when Norway put one over on an error by Kearney and bunts by Russell and Lafrance.

The hits and errors were about evenly divided on both sides, and while not a scientific game, it was interesting to watch. The score:—

Norway Municipal Court.

WM. F. JONES, JUDGE.

The case of the two boys about 12 years of age, one charged with forging endorsements on two checks and the other cashing them, was heard before the municipal court, Saturday.

It was shown that Clyde McKay did the writing and Arthur Paine got the money. It seems that D. W. Danforth of the Direct Importing Co., sent three letters to the postoffice by those boys and they opened the letters and took the checks. Two of the checks were cashed by Ralph Andrews at South Paris, the money they got was about $20. As Judge Jones did not have the jurisdiction in such cases the boys were bound over to the Grand Jury.

Extracts from a Diary.

Kept by Elbridge Walker.

Commenced to build over the Beal's house in 1870. This is when it was built over from the spacious residence of Ezra Beal, with additions, into a hotel. Ezra Beal at that time owned the land on the Beal House side of Cottage street out toward and beyond the depot and the meadow and Rumford road. Robert Noyes owned the land on the other side of Cottage street. Beal and Noyes gave the land for Cottage street.

On the Beal land, Alonzo Brickett and Elbridge Walker picked 25 barrels of Pearmain apples.

Charles L. Hathaway and Cyrus Woodsum commenced the carpenter work with others on the Beal's house May 16, 1870.

In May 1870, Horace Pike, George W. Hobbs, William Judkins and Elbridge Walker, carpenters on the Beal's house had 16 days off. Clarence Smith worked lathing.

A board fell on Ezra Beal's dog and killed him and Mr. Beal gave Mr. Walker one dollar to bury the dog.

The Beal's house was opened as a hotel the next year, 1871.

Went to Stoneham and got three men to help hay on the Beal's land:—Isaiah McAllister, Dustin McAllister and Amos E. McAllister, and got back July 4th.

In June the cesspool back of the Beal's house was dug, 13 feet across. The logs for the cesspool were got on Juniper Point, where the C. N. Tubbs' barn now is, out on the meadow.

Orrin Walker, Elbridge Walker's father and boy Elbridge moved from Stoneham, 1869 to the Beal's Hotel house; moved to Crooked River in 1872; bought the farm in Yagger of Jonathan Blake in 1874; lost the bay horse in 1875; lost a cow in 1876; sold oxen to Coleman Lord in 1878 for $240, girth 7 feet 2 inches; Oct. 20 sold a yoke of oxen to Newell Trafton for $220; paid George P. Whitney $20 for five pigs; Hiram Hathaway, (on the Hathaway-Hazelton farm) $25 for harness and $10 for labor on the harness; Granville Reed $47 for a horse. This horse come to grief, for we read Frank Town and Bill Benson had him to go away with in 1890 and he died on their hands.

In 1875 the 28th of November, Orrin Walker and his son, Elbridge Walker, left Yagger for Denmark for a logging job. They got in camp Dec. 3, and left camp the next spring March 13th. Sold the four oxen between Bridgton and Bridgton Center, for $460. In 1889 they went to Hiram Falls to work on the Mountain with six oxen on a logging job for Emery and Sanborn. Lost all but $20 earned $1240.

Elbridge Walker in 1888 left for Keene, N. H., and worked for John P. Shaw a year and 44 days in the Shoe factory, or until the son, Warren Shaw, shot himself, April 19th. He loafed two weeks and came home to Norway, June 17, 1889. He married Flora E Morse, Aug. 9 that same year.

Went to Pennsylvania in 1892 and worked four months in a Shoe factory at $20 per week. Came home in August and went to work in the Norway Shoe factory the next day worked two weeks. Went to Lancaster, N. H., and worked five weeks on the railroad; then continued work on the railroad at Montreal, and worked three weeks, West Virginia, worked five weeks, Chicago, four weeks and returned home Nov. 9.

Endorsed at Home.

Such Proof as This Should Convince Any Norway Citizen.

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow-citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Norway adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

C. E. Bradford, prop. laundry, Main St., Norway, Me., says: "Sometimes I had a dull pain through the small of my back, together with a tired feeling. I couldn't rest well. When a friend advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at Stone's Drug Store. After I used two boxes the pains and other troubles disappeared, and there was a great improvement in every way. I have had no trouble since." 22-23

A Severe Sickness Leaves The Kidneys Weak

After recovering from a severe spell of sickness some time ago, I was all run down and suffering from poor blood. I would have pains in my back and hips and my kidneys bothered me all the time. I started taking Swamp-Root upon the recommendation of a friend and found it was just what I needed. My blood became all right and after taking a few bottles, I was surprised at the effect it had on my kidneys. They were entirely cured and I have much to be thankful for that your great remedy did for me.

Yours very truly,
W. O. BLACKMON,

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & Co. Toledo, Ohio.

If Mothers Only Knew!

By Dr. True

Nineteen-twentieths of the sickness of children have two causes: constipation and worms!

The danger of constipation is understood, but there are 50 different kinds of worms that may exist in the stomach and bowels, and children are especially apt to have them. Usually stomachand pin worms.

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, with a variable appetite; abnormal craving for sweets; nausea and vomiting; swollen upper lip; sour tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; face at one time flushed, then pale and in a few cases the face takes on a dull leaden hue; eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids; itching of the nose; itching of the rectum; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; little red points sticking out on tongue; starting during sleep; slow fever; pulse quickened and irregular; body may be hot; and often, in children, convulsions.

Rid the child of worms and you will have a healthy, happy child.

NOTE—Dr. True's own prescription, sold under the name of Dr. True's Elixir, is the best remedy in the world for worms. It destroys all worm life, expels worms from the body and makes the child healthy again.

All dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00.

East Oxford Local Union.

The annual Convention of the East Oxford Local Union of Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was held at the Baptist church at Mechanic Falls, Wednesday, May 28th.

The opening of the session was at at 10.45 with a devotional service conducted by Rev. E. A. Davis of South Paris.

Harry W. Rowe of Waterville, field secretary of the State Union spoke on Christian Endeavor work and instead of giving an address, distributed blanks containing a large list of question covering all phases of the work, which were largely discussed, bringing out much information and help on the work. Mr. Rowe is a very interesting speaker and presented the work in a manner which would be a benefit to all present and for their future work.

Among the other speakers of the day were Rev. H. L. Hanson of Rumford, Mrs. I. Q. Moulton of Mechanic Falls, Rev. R. J. Bruce of Norway, Rev. D. W. Kimball of Mechanic Falls and Rev. A T. McWhorter of South Paris.

The Union was entertained by the Baptist and Congregational Unions at the Baptist church. An excellent dinner and supper were served at the vestry by the entertaining Unions. There was about 30 visitors present from the Unions of the surrounding towns.

The address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. A. T. McWhorter of South Paris, who spoke on "The Mighty Now." His address was of special interest to all and very fittingly brought to a close the session of the day. The new thoughts and new ideas which had been brought before the endeavorers during the day, should be put into practise, that the work among the young people might be furthered and that right living by the teaching of Christ should be followed by all and not at some future time and then we would not feel the sadness of those most fearful words, "It might have been."

At the bussines session the following officers were chosen:

Pres.—Rev. R. J. Bruce, Norway.
V. Pres.—Rev. E. A. Davis, South Paris.
Sec.-Treas.—Eva Walker, South Paris.
Co. Sec.—R. S. Osgood, Norway.

The next annual meeting will probably be held at the Congregational church at Norway.

Years of Suffering

Catarrh and Blood Disease—Doctors Failed to Cure.

Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrh and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrh."

THE SWINEHERD.

Hogs should have clean pastures, beds and water, and a variety of food.

If sows are expected to produce a fall litter, the spring litter should be weaned when about ten weeks old.

Pigs that show signs of thumps should be forced to take exercise.

Young pigs are peculiarly subjected to various kinds of intestinal worms.

Keep the feed troughs clean. It is a wasteful practice to mix manure with grain.

You cannot fatten a brood sow and fatten a hog alike, and make the best success of both.

As long as the breeding of a sow is profitable she should be bred. It is not advisable to sell off a good brood animal.

HOGGING OFF CORN.

Satisfactory Method of Finishing Swine For Market.

One of the most satisfactory methods of finishing hogs is that of "hogging off." In fact, as a method of fitting for market after the pigs have secured the necessary size and frame it is cheaper than the best methods of dry lot feeding. The hog is his own harvester and feeder. He saves labor, time and fertility. And certainly in these days when labor is scarce, land high and feeds expensive we may well welcome a method with which to reduce the cost of production.

At one time it was the common opinion that much of the corn was wasted. But actual tests disprove this. Indeed, hogs will waste less corn than the farmer, were he to shuck it himself. Of course allowance must be made for extremely wet seasons, but in this case hurdles may be used and only about as much corn allowed as can be cleaned up well in about ten days.

Some idea of the economy of "hogging off" may be gained by noting the results of an experiment at the Iowa station. The pigs were turned into the standing corn at a weight of eighty-two pounds during the middle of September, or about the time the corn was beginning to dent. One acre supported ten pigs about two months. At the end of that time the lot in soy beans and corn made a gain of one and a half pounds per day, producing over 600 pounds of pork per acre at a cost of $2.38 per hundred. The second lot in corn and cowpeas gained one and a quarter pounds per day at a cost of $2.46 per hundred. Corn and vetch stood third in daily gain and cost of production and corn alone fourth.

At the Missouri station hogs weighing 140 pounds were turned into a field of corn in which rye had been sowed at the last cultivation. The pigs weighed 200 pounds when removed, or, at 6 cents per pound, returned $36 per acre.

In a second lot corn and cowpeas were fed. The Whippoorwill variety was used, and they were sown broadcast at the time of the last cultivation of July 17. The feed lasted thirty days, and in that time the pigs had gained fifty-seven pounds each. The important result is that 568 pounds of pork were produced per acre, which at 6 cents returned $34.08. Corn and rape were also fed with success. Rape may be sown in the same manner as the peas, at the rate of about four pounds per acre. On either soy beans or vetch may be sown at the rate of about one-half bushel per acre. When forage crops cannot be sown in the corn they may be provided as a separate pasture, or alfalfa or clover pasture may be used as a supplement when it is accessible.

Under ordinary conditions the pigs will take care of the corn without much attention. However, if small pigs are used it may be necessary to assist them for awhile by "turning in" a few older hogs. For this reason 100 pound pigs generally give the best results. Pigs of this size have secured sufficient growth, so that they will not become too chunky and stop growth. Very large pigs, on the other hand, are inclined to break more corn than is absolutely necessary from day to day; hence their gain is not so economical.

The Pure Bred Sire.

A Montana correspondent of Hoard's Dairyman writes: I would like to add my testimony as to the value of the pure bred sire. I bought, among other common cows, five that cost me $240 and mated them to my choice young Holstein-Friesian bull that cost me $200. These cows had five heifer calves, which I sold as yearlings to a Canadian buyer at $60 per head, or $12 per head above the average cost of their mothers. A good price for common yearling heifers hereabouts is $20 per head. These five brought enough in excess of that figure to pay for the bull.

The Profitable Cow.

It is impossible to get away from the fact that the dairy cow is the most economical producer of human food of all of our live stock. This is the reason the dairy cow finds her permanent habitat and exists in her highest degree of perfection on high priced land. The dairy cow—just as sure as the world moves—forces herself to the rescue of the man who owns expensive land and who is compelled to get out of it a living and something besides.

An old couple went to a Dublin theater to have a night's amusement. The great Mrs. Siddons was playing "Mrs. Haller," and the poor bodies were kept crying all the evening. At length, at one of the scenes where the great lady came in with her handkerchief again to her eyes, the old man could stand it no longer and, starting to his feet, cried out, "Ye long nosed thief, ye call this divarshun!"

Charm of Farm Life.

Farm life is often spoken of as being monotonous, but is there any reason why it should be? The environment of farming is far more varied, more interesting and more attractive than city life. Those who must sit at a desk in a shower of dust and endure heat during summer and dreary weather in winter for from eight to twelve hours a day may find life monotonous, not the farmer surrounded with nature in all of her charm.—Farm and Ranch.

Keep the Flies Off.

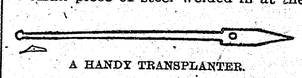

To prevent flies from tormenting your cattle during hot weather make the following inexpensive, effective and harmless fly repellent:

	Parts.
Pulverized rosin	2
Soap shavings	1
Water	½
Fish oil	1
Oil tar	1
Kerosene	1
Water	3

Place the rosin, soap shavings, one-half part water and fish oil in a receptacle and boil till the rosin is dissolved. Then add the three parts of water, following with the oil or tar, mixed with the kerosene. Stir the mixture well and allow it to boil fifteen minutes. When cool the mixture is ready for use and should be stirred frequently while being applied. Use a good paint brush for this purpose. One application a day for three or four days and then every other day will keep flies from bothering cows. Apply it most freely on the shoulders, neck and under parts of the body, where flies cannot be switched off with the tail.—Farm and Fireside.

Bordeaux Is a Good Thing.

Spray the tomato vines with the bordeaux mixture to prevent rot, blight, etc. Bean rust and anthracnose, potato rot and blight, fungous troubles of melons, cucumbers, etc., can all be largely prevented by timely applications of this same mixture.—Farm Journal.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

When feed becomes sour bury it. To feed it means sick fowls; to let it stand means maggots. When buried or burned you know your fowls cannot find it to their detriment.

That farmer is foolish who sells his eggs to the store in trade at two dozen for a quarter when by simply preserving them in water glass, (sodium silicate) he can keep them in fine shape and sell them for double the price in winter.

William Connolly of Clifton Heights, Pa., was surprised to find forty dead rats in his poultry yard. On watching he saw two big roosters grab the rats as they came out of their holes and pitch them to the hens, who whacked the life out of them. Next!

Young stock should be pushed right along, for at the longest the season is short. Protein is the blood and body builder, and if you don't have the range to naturally produce it some meat or milk food must be furnished to make the fowls come to a strong maturity.

A fly lays 120 eggs, and these hatch in fifteen days, and it is claimed one fly is progenitor to 1,000 flies a season. The red mite surpasses this, for it is said to be responsible for 125,000 of its kind every twelve weeks in warm weather. Better swat now to avoid the rush.

If preserving eggs in water glass always mix the glass and water separately for each crock. This insures an even mixture for each batch.

One hundred and eight No. 5 shot were removed from the back, arms and legs of a dying chicken thief, shot while stealing chickens near Norristown, Pa.

Foxes were introduced into Australia to exterminate the rabbits. They got tired of rabbit and are now destroying much poultry and have become as much of a problem as the pesky English sparrow is to this country.

Dr. F. W. Hartley of Baltimore is convinced that humans contract diseases from fowls. His wife swung in a hammock beside a cage where pigeons with diphtheria were confined. She caught the disease and recovered with difficulty.

Seventy-five thousand ducklings, thousands of eggs, several duck houses, incubation and brooding equipment were burned at the Stauffer plant, Cumberland county, Pa., at the height of the hatching season. Mr. Stauffer has our sympathy. To avoid such calamity care well for that incubator lamp and sleep with one eye open.

WATERFORD.

Abbie Wilson Rice.

Abbie Wilson Rice, wife of Burnham W. Rice, died at her home midway between this place and North Waterford, Tuesday morning, May 27. Mrs. Rice was taken violently ill Sunday, and a counsel of local physicians decided that an operation was her only chance for life.

Dr. Webber of Lewiston was summoned and operated early Monday morning, assisted by Dr. A. J. Stimpson. Fifty gall stones were removed but the bursting of the gall bladder some time previous to the operation had rendered conditions so serious that surgical skill could not save her life.

Mrs. Rice was born in Shelburne, N. H., in 1875. Seventeen years ago she married Mr. Rice and to them seven children were born, six of whom survive: Vera, Walter, Ralph, Madalene, Guy and Erva.

Mrs. Rice had four brothers and two sisters of whom Albert of Norway, Charles and Herman of Paris, Aldine of Shelburne, N. H., Mrs. Jennie Coffin of Gilead were present at the funeral, Mrs. Ida McKeen of Shelburne being the only one unable to be present.

Funeral services were held at the home, Thursday, the 29th, Rev. W. B. Hague of North Waterford offering prayer and Rev. G. W. Sias of Waterford reading the Scriptures and speaking words of comfort.

Beautiful floral tributes were presented as follows: 38 carnations, husband, children and mother; carnations and roses, Chas. P. Wilson, Albert Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Foss, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Foss; basket, Frank B. Coffin and family of Gilead; bouquet stock, A. A. Wilson; bouquet roses, H. C. McKeen and family; bouquet carnations, H. E. Wilson and wife; bouquet carnations, Mrs. Etta Wilson; spirea, Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Millett and family, Mr. and Mrs. Urban Tyler; tulips and roses, Mr. and Mrs. C. Rufus Rice; pillow; "Sister," Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Kneeland; bouquet roses, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz J. Johansson; bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Millett and family; bouquet roses, Geo. H. Rice and wife; wreath, Mrs. Lord and Mrs. Coffin; cut flowers, Mrs. Susan M. Nason; bouqut, Chas. Saunders and family; bouquet, Chas. Hersey and family; Easter lilies, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nason; spirea and stock, Ladies' Sewing Circle.

PESTS IN GRAIN BINS.

Must Be Killed Before Storage of Harvest if Damage Is to Be Averted.

A few cents' worth of carbon bisulphide will kill the insects hiding in the cracks of your bins waiting for the new grain. Insects injurious to stored grains, says G. A. Dean, a bug specialist at the Kansas Agricultural college, work so vigorously that the farmer must either kill them, dispose of his grain or sit still and allow them to damage it. Killing these pests before the grain is stored prevents much damage in the fall and winter, he says.

Dust, dirt, rubbish, refuse grain, flour and meal serve as breeding places for these pests. Fresh grain should not be exposed to attack by being placed with the old which already is infested. Throw this out. Unless the old grain was badly infested with any one of the four or five common injurious insects it may not be necessary to fumigate now, but a thorough cleaning of the floor, walls and ceiling should not be neglected. To avoid infestation in the stack the grain should be thrashed as soon after harvesting as possible. Considerable damage has been done by these insects to stacked wheat and oats in Kansas in the last four or five years.

One pound of carbon bisulphide when the temperature is about 90 degrees will fumigate 500 cubic feet of space. At 80 degrees 400 cubic feet will be thoroughly treated. The building and bins must be as nearly air tight as possible while fumigating. The carbon bisulphide should be placed in shallow pans at the top of the bins or building. Evaporation is rapid, the vapor settling to the bottom of the bin and poisoning the insects. If the grain is not to be used for seed it is well to allow the vapor to remain in it for forty-eight hours. Doors and windows should be opened wide after the fumigation and the bins aired thoroughly one or two hours before entering.

One should be very careful in handling carbon bisulphide, as it is highly inflammable. Electric lights must not be used, since when turning them on or off there always is danger of producing a spark. It is not safe to have heat of any kind in the building when the fumigation is in progress.

No man should be contented with the average yield of crops. The average is between the high yield and the low yield and is so far below the high that no one should be satisfied with such returns for his labor.—Farm and Ranch.

"SCALPER" FOR WEEDS.

Homemade Tool That Does Good Work Around Sweet Potatoes, Onions, Etc.

This "scalper" for weeds is a simple affair and can easily be made by any blacksmith in a short time, and the cost, aside from the handle, need not exceed 20 cents. It is made of an iron rod about twenty-four inches long and three-sixteenths to one-fourth of an inch in diameter. This rod is bent in the form of a triangle and the two ends welded together so as to go in an ordinary hoe handle. Before bending, however, six inches in the center of the rod (afterward the base of the triangle) should be heated and pounded out to make a flattened surface at least one-half inch wide with a slight bevel so that one side will be sufficiently thin to make a reasonably sharp edge.

Measure one-half inch on either side of the flattened surface or blade and bend from these two points so as to form the triangle with the blade as the base. The sides of the triangle are about five inches long, and this leaves two ends of three and a half inches to be welded together, forming the shank.

WEED SCALPER.
[From the Rural New Yorker.]

When inserting in a handle the scalper is bent at the shank so as to make a slight angle with the handle. The scalper is the lightest and most efficient tool we have for working in sweet potatoes. With it even green hands can do fairly good work with little injury, as the plant is protected from the two extremes of the blade or cutting edge by the rounded corners made by the unsharpened rod. The scalper takes the place of a hoe everywhere except in heavy soil or where soil must be pulled up to the hill. Although used mainly for sweets, we find it valuable for working in strawberries, cabbage, onions, watermelons, cantaloupes, etc., and it proves a great help in a fight against grass and weeds.—Rural New Yorker.

Harvesting Wheat.

Wheat should not be allowed to get overripe before being cut because there is more waste from shelling, and it does not make so much or so good flour if the outer covering becomes too thick and hard. More goes to bran. The practice of setting it up in round shocks and capping with two sheaves broken over in the middle is not favored as much as it used to be.—American Cultivator.

At the close of the strawberry season a few weeks ago a Missouri valley gardener reported a total of 2,383 quarts of strawberries picked from a bed containing just a quarter of an acre. These berries brought on an average 15 cents a box, or a total of $357.45. Multiplying this by four gives $1,429 as the per acre yield. This compares well with returns in any part of the country, including even California or Texas.

Moosehead Lake Fishing.

Private Letter Published by Permission.

Greenleaf's Camps, Sugar Island,
Thursday, May 29, 1913.

Have deferred writing, hoping to have something to report regarding fly fishing. Up to now not a fish has been caught on a fly. Have not seen "a break" as yet. There is nothing to call them up.

Have not fished industriously but have filled two boxes and Dr. Whibley took out 15 pounds, total 35 pounds.

From 3 to 12 salmon are brought in daily—I have caught five, the biggest, 5½ pounds, and the best shaped one I've seen. It took me 25 minutes to get it into the net. I used your Greenhart rod—have trolled with it and a steel rod. Tuesday last, I got 4 fish that weighed 12 pounds—salmon 5¼ and 2½, total 8 pounds, 1 square tail 4 pounds, total 12 pounds. Another day I got some 14 pounds, but mostly togue.

The salmon are not as numerous as trout but are increasing each year—I have no doubt 50 salmon have been taken—the largest (2) 5½ pounds each—I never saw so many togue as there are here this year. There are no shiners or smelts as yet, that is, none of the former have come in quantities to the shore—and it's difficult to get bait—we have sent to Greenville for shiners. A few togue have had smelts in them. The stomachs of the trout are empty, as a rule, and it's almost June, too.

A week ago—between showers—I fished at the wharf and got, with "worms for bait," 3 trout and 1 white fish, viz: 4½, 3½ and 2, and the white fish 3, total 13 pounds. That was a big catch for the time it took. The fish are cleaned on the wharf and the offal thrown in and this tolls the big ones in. Several other fish have been taken in "Elgin's door-yard," a 5½ pound trout and a 4¼ pound one. There are now about the wharf, 3 fish—I've seen them and weighed them in the water with my eyes and I'll, bet something of no value they will weigh from 8 to 10 pounds for the three. Suckers and chubs have not got here. Water is too cold.

Some Indian relics have been found. One especially nice arrow head and several broken spears. Water is too high for successful hunting.

I have no doubt a thousand pounds of fish have been brought into these camps thus far this season. Twenty ten-pound boxes have been sent out by express and some fishermen have taken out 15 pounds each. This makes a total of 725 pounds of dressed fish and does not take into account the amount of fish served on the table, which has been liberal. A half ton of fish is conservative. If actual weight had been kept I feel it would exceed that.

At present there are only 3 fishermen here, but more are on the way and I feel the biggest catch of square tails will be in the next ten days.

I wish it were so you could be here for the fly fishing which will soon be on—a few warm days and the trout will come to the surface.

I haven't visited Prong Pond as yet. The boom, 2¼ million, were taken out of Beaver Creek, yesterday, and the water way to the pond is now open. Will go there when the rain is over.

HOW THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

Would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for All Rest of Medicine in the World.

Utica, Ohio.—"I suffered everything from a female weakness after baby came. I had numb spells and was dizzy, had black spots before my eyes, my back ached and I was so weak I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I had displacement. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am stout, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and can walk to town and back and not get tired. I would not give your Vegetable Compound for all the rest of the medicines in the world. I tried doctor's medicines and they did me no good."—Mrs. MARY EARLEWINE, R.F.D. No. 3, Utica, Ohio.

Memorial Day Exercises.

There was an unusually large number out for the Memorial exercises, Memorial day. Co. D was met at the station, and with about 200 school children, soldiers, the Ladies of the G. A. R. and Lumley Castle band, all proceeded to Riverside cemetery where the exercises were held. The exercises consisted of the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech by Percival E. Hathaway, prayer, Rev. A. T. McWhorter, and a selection by the Schubert quartette. The graves were decorated, then the line of march formed and proceeded to the park, where the soldiers' monument was decorated. The procession then proceeded to the square where the school children were presented with bananas and candy, a gift from the Post.

At noon dinner was served by the Post and Corps at G. A. R. hall, followed at 2 o'clock by the exercises at New Hall. The stage was decorated with the stars and stripes, and above, the picture of Abraham Lincoln.

The program consisted of a prayer by Rev. C. I. Spear, music by the Schubert quartette, selections by Lumley Castle band and the reading of "Memorial Day" by Arline Crocker.

The speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. C. G. Miller, the pastor of the Universalist church. In opening his remarks he made reference to pictures, scenes and memories of the war which are told, to be passed down to posterity, which have to be told because the war took place at a time when there were no film pictures to reproduce them. He told of several incidents where Lincoln and Henry Clay did all within their power to compromise and avert a Civil war, but the compromise failed. He also made reference to the fugitive law and the underground railway and their effects. The South said they could secede at any time, while the North held that the states once in the union can never go out. Mr. Miller spoke of what the soldiers during that war had to go through and the hardships they had to endure and that the young people will never know as there will be no more Civil war. He said that there is not the reverence for the epaulet or the sword in this country, but abroad it is different. There these things are held in reverence and the people bow to the ground, but in the American soldier there is the initiative, and that is what they lack. Washington held staves and so did the members of the cabinet, because it was the custom of the times. He said that in those days they had not studied psychology, they had not found the soul in man; China has turned from her former ways in a flash and is throwing off the shackles. He spoke of the problem of the Southern states, as well as the United States, for the black outnumber the white, they cannot be sent back from where they came from but have got to be educated; men in the United States cannot be a slave and be free. He spoke of many incidents in the war, calling to mind the blockade and dependency of the South for food from abroad as it could not produce its food like the North on account of its not being a fertile country; he also made reference to the battles of Gettysburg, Vicksburg, Richmond and Petersburg and others up to the time of the surrender. In closing he spoke of the advantage to the young people by the annual observance of Memorial day. It perpetuates the memory of the soldiers and installs a reverance for the flag, for what it stands, and the country, for which it stands.

Maxim-Whitman.

A very pretty wedding occured at the home of Silas P. Maxim, Wednesday, May 28 at 8 o'clock, when S. Sanger Maxim and Edith May Whitman were united in matrimony by Chester Gore Miller. The single ring service being used.

The house was prettily decorated with ferns and apple blossoms.

The bride was dressed in white embroidered muslin and silk and wore a large picture hat of white draped with a blue willow plume and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and ferns tied with streamers of ribbon. This was a gift to the bride from her mother and sister. It was afterwards, by the bride made in small boquets each tied by a piece of the ribbon and given to each of the guests.

The groom looked very nice dressed in blue. The bride was attended by her father, Albert R. Whitman and sister, Lulu M. W. Tyler, both of Oxford. The bride's traveling suit was of brown. The groom is a well known business man of South Paris.

Shortly after the ceremony refreshments were served of ice cream, cake, assorted crackers, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxim will take a bridal trip in their auto across the country and on returning will reside at South Paris where they have a pretty new home awaiting them. May their pathway always be strewn with sunshine, without a cloud.

Mrs. Angeline T. Forbes.

Mrs. Angeline T. Forbes died at her home on Porter street, at one o'clock, Thursday, May 29th. She had been for a long time growing infirm, and for several months had been nearly helpless.

Mrs. Forbes was the daugter of Joel P. and Mary Dudley Thayer, and was born in Albany, December 2, 1828. When young she moved to Paris with her parents, where she has lived with the exception of a few years spent in the West.

She married Elbridge Forbes of Paris, in 1857. Two children were born to them, both of whom are living: Fannie A. Forbes and Arthur E. Forbes, both of South Paris. She is also survived by a granddaughter, formerly Una P. Tyler, now Mrs. Ira Mournian of Fossil, Oregon, whom she brought up. Mrs. Forbes was a mother to the girl from the death of her mother when she was two years old, until she went West a few years ago.

Mr. Forbes had several children by a former wife whom she brought up: Mrs. L. C. Morton of South Paris, Mrs. Clara A. Bessey of Stoneham, Mass., Rev. H. T. Forbes, D. D., of Canton, N. Y., and George B. Crockett of South Paris.

Mrs. Forbes was one of the oldest members of the South Paris Baptist church.

The funeral was held at her late home at 1.30, Sunday, attended by Rev. G. W. V. Hill of Paris, assisted by Rev E. A. Davis of the South Paris Baptist church.

PAINT?

There are two good reasons for painting often-enough or even too-often. One, to look prosperous; two, to be so.

Nothing does one more credit or gives one more credit than paint, supplemented of course by what goes with it; and paint costs nothing.

True, the first cost is $5 or $6 a gallon put-on; but it saves more than that in the property; saves it from slow going-down—not always slow—it drops with a jump when water gets in on wood and iron.

Dry wood and iron costs nothing, kept dry by paint.

Better paint when it needs it. Paint never goes-down in the sense of being more Profitable next year.

Linnell--Kincaid.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Linnell, Otisfield Gore, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on June 1st, at 2 p. m., when their daughter, Evelena A., was united in marriage to Walter S. Kincaid. Rev. R. J. Bruce, pastor of the Congregational church of Norway, was the officiating clergyman.

The wedding march was beautifully rendered by Ida Stone of Oxford. The ceremony was beautiful and effective, being performed under an arch of green from which hung the wedding bell.

The double ring service was used. Little Marjorie Twitchell acted as ring bearer. The bridesmaid was Jennie M. Linnell, sister of the bride. The best man was H. Lee Kincaid, a nephew of the groom.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a dress of white brocade satin with pearl trimmings. She wore a bridal veil decorated with pearls and rhinestones. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid looked very sweet in a dress of blue silk chiffon. The bridesmaid received a gold bracelet, the best man a set of gold cuff links, the ring bearer a gold bracelet as gifts from the bride and groom. The guests were received by Mrs. Linnell, who was gowned in blue silk messaline.

Delicious refreshments of ice cream, cake and fancy crackers were served by Katherine Flint and Bessie Brown of Norway and Ethel Twitchell of Oxford.

Mr. and Mrs. Kincaid were well remembered with gifts of silver, hand-painted china and linen. There were about 25 present including Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Linnell, Jennie M. Linnell, S. T. Reed, S. T. Mr. and Mrs. Kincaid left at once on an extended trip. They will visit several places of interest, including New York, Niagara and Thousand Islands; will also stop at Mt. Kineo. THE INQUISITIVE MAN.

His Curiosity Was Eased, Though His Feelings Were Mangled.

A business man in Boston said to a reporter: "A few days before an election a little incident happened which mortified me deeply. It happened in this way: You see, I had some business to transact with one of the candidates for the legislature, and, as it was something important, I was forced to go out to his house to see him. It was quite late when I got there, and I guess he had gone to bed. At any rate, the servant who opened the door showed me into the parlor to wait for his master. I was obliged to wait some time, and while doing this I amused myself looking at the pictures and other ornaments about the room.

"On the center table, among books and other bric-a-brac, stood a big fancy decanter filled with liquor which looked like whisky. It was a curious looking decanter, and on one side was some fancy lettering which I could not make out. Being rather curious to find out what it said, I lifted the decanter up from the table and tipped it up so that the light fell on the lettering. It said, 'If you touch me I'll tell.'

"Curious, wasn't it? But, sure enough, it did tell, for I had scarcely had time to read the lettering when my ears were greeted with the tones of 'Johnny Get Your Gun.' There was a music box hidden in the bottom of the decanter, and when it was tipped the machinery started and the music began. You can judge for yourself how surprised and chagrined I was, for I had never seen the master of the house before and he would have a fine opinion of me for my meddling qualities.

"Right in the middle of the tune he walked into the parlor and gave me a curious smile when he heard that music box. It seemed as if it would never stop. I tried to make some sort of apology, but made a bull of it, I know, though now I can not think for the life of me what I said. He saw how confused I was and laughed it off, saying that it was an oddity he had found in New York."

Careless.

The story is told that a letter received some years ago by the Westinghouse Machine company said that the writer had been using one of its standard vertical engines with eminent satisfaction. For eight years it had been in continuous service night and day, handling its load without a hint of trouble, but that "upon shutting it down the other evening it went all to pieces." The letter was passed to the eminent inventor whose name the company bears, who handed it back with the remark, "Ask the blame fool what he shut it down for."—Power.

Built For the Part.

This is selected from the reminiscences of Mr. F. G. Hales, the famous English war correspondent:

"Once I wandered forth to face a callous world and noticed that a company of strolling players had just arrived in the town. I hunted up the manager and asked him if he was in need of talent. He said he was. Then he asked me if I was an actor. I said I was born an actor. He pulled me into the building and asked me to give him a sample of my powers. Of course I took something easy—the ghost scene in 'Hamlet'—and I played Hamlet, the ghost, and the whole outfit.

"When I had finished the manager took me by the arm and said:

"'I'll engage you. I have the part to suit your histrionic abilities.'

"Then he gave me a big brush, a bucket of paste and a roll of bills.

"'Go forth,' he said, 'and decorate this town. You were built for the part.'

"It was a shock, but I was used to shocks, and so I took it and a half crown payment in advance."

"YOU WERE BUILT FOR THE PART."

Some Responsibility.

"Just himself and his wife alone, isn't it?"

"No, they have a cat, a canary, two dogs and a cow."

"I didn't suppose he was as much of a family man as that."

The city man who imagines that the farmer has only to plant and sow and harvest and then deposit his cash has still a few things to learn.
